

THIRTY FIRST YEAR

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JANUARY 13, 1921.

NUMBER 43.

(Editorial.)

THE TOBACCO SITUATION.

The prices that are being offered for the tobacco on the loose leaf markets makes an unusual serious situation to all the business interests in the Burley tobacco growing district. And it is well enough that the people realize what it means. It is a situation that is not going to be solved by any excited or hasty steps on the part of some badly balanced or radical person. Each locality in the tobacco district has troubles of its own and so far as the present crop is concerned are compelled to deal with the situation in its own way. So far as this locality is concerned this crop of tobacco has been produced at a heavy expense and all business interests, including merchants and bankers, have conducted their business looking to a settlement with the growers out of the sale of this tobacco. A disappointment in this regard would bring enormous losses to such business interests. In fact, such losses as we are not prepared to take at this time and if any one should stand these losses it should be the grower and not the creditors. The proposition for the grower to hold his tobacco for another year, or even until May, is not practical, as we see it. In the first place, he is not prepared to take care of it if he was financially able to hold it, and should he attempt to hold this crop of tobacco over the winter incidental to the delay would be far in excess, in our judgment, to any increasing price that he would ever be able to realize in the undertaking. To prize the tobacco and send it to re-dryers and place the same in storage warehouses for months with the crop in the hands of some one else, and all the inconveniences attached to such an undertaking would not suit the tobacco grower. And the demand, therefore, of any outside communities, coming without any previous notice would entail a hardship and sacrifice so great that the grower should be entitled to consult his own interest and wishes before he yields to the plan of his neighbors, however sincere his neighbor may be in this undertaking for mutual good. We therefore, conclude, that the Garrard County Warehouses should continue open for the sale of tobacco so long as the growers of this locality, that is, the majority of the growers, wish them to furnish an open market for the sale of their crops. But dealing with the future crop, that is the 1921 crop, presents a different question altogether.

We believe that Garrard and surrounding counties should engage in the closest co-operation with all the Burley growing districts in dealing with the question in the future. The open and general discussion of the tobacco growing business gives all a timely notice as to how to arrange future plans. There is no question but what we are producing more tobacco than the present consumption requires. There is already a large over-production and surplus in the lower grades of tobacco. This is admitted by all. And the law of supply and demand without regard to any complaint of a monopoly that may exist among the buyers would result in a lower price. The grower must realize that all farm products have been reduced in price from one-half to two-thirds and tobacco would naturally reflect in price this general falling off in the markets. The handling of the trust or monopoly condition of the manufacturers who buy the tobacco must be left to the courts and public officials, who may be encouraged in doing their duty dealing with the trusts by a strong organization among the tobacco growers, which we believe should be maintained for the good of the tobacco growing industry. Every tobacco grower ought to belong to an organization to deal with all questions affecting his interests. But at the present time, with an over-production of to-

BANKS OF CITY

Elect Officers Last Tuesday.

The three local banks of Lancaster re-elected their directors last Tuesday, immediately following this the regular officers of each of the banks were elected for the ensuing year. We venture to say that there isn't in the state of Kentucky a better set of officers than we have in these three banks.

The following officers will serve during the year: Citizens National Bank, B. E. Hudson, Pres't.; W. O. Rigney, Asst. to President; J. J. Walker, V. Pres.; W. F. Champ, V. Pres't.; L. G. Davidson, Cashier; J. L. Gill, Asst. Cashier; W. F. Miller, Asst. Cashier; Mrs. N. C. Hamilton, Teller.

Garrard Bank & Trust Company, R. E. McRoberts, Pres't.; W. R. Cook, V. Pres't.; J. W. Elmore, Cashier; W. S. Hopper and E. L. Gadhery, Asst. Cashiers; Harry Tomlinson and E. V. Sponamore, Bookkeepers; Miss Hettie West, Asst. Bookkeeper.

National Bank, Alex. R. Denny, Pres't.; J. E. Stornes, V. Pres't.; S. C. Denny, Cashier; C. M. Thompson, Asst. Cashier; P. P. Elliott, Indiv. Bookkeeper; Hugh Mohrly, Gen'l. Bookkeeper.

MASONIC LODGE

Install New Officers Banquet Follows.

Lancaster Masonic Lodge held its regular meeting last Tuesday night and about fifty members were present. It being the usual annual installation of officers, beside conferring the Master Degree upon three candidates. The following officers were installed: John M. Farrar, W. M.; C. D. Struther, S. W.; L. G. Davidson, J. W.; John W. Wood, S. O.; Wesley Dickerson, J. H.; W. O. Rigney, Treas.; A. D. Joseph, Sec'y.; A. T. Anderson, Tyler.

A delightful banquet was then served at the City Restaurant, the new Master, John M. Farrar being the genial host. Short toasts were made by several of the members, which brought to a close one of the best meetings the lodge has had for many months.

hacco the only hope for a better price is to either cut out a year's crop altogether, or greatly reduce the acreage and thereby raise and have for sale less tobacco and handle it better, thereby producing a better quality. In other words, the slogan of the tobacco grower should be "Less tobacco and a better quality." From our view point and considering the interests of our local community we favor not a cut out of the crop, but an organization among the growers and a uniform reduction by every body in the acreage. There are many people who are dependent altogether on the growing of tobacco for a livelihood upon whom it would work such a hardship to cut out the crop altogether that it would be better to suffer the production of a small crop and a better crop. We think that manufacturers could and would pay a living price for a small, well handled crop of tobacco in 1921, such a crop as the consumer requires. However, this plan must be worked out by a complete, unselfish, willing co-operation among the growers. It is unconsentable, unjust, and unbearable for a part of the growers to reduce the crop and make the sacrifice and fight for a living price and the selfish farmer to increase his crop or grow his usual crop thus taking advantage of his neighbor in the common cause. This applies not only to the growers in each county, but likewise to the relation of one county to another and of one district to another, and to the whole tobacco growing section. If there is to be a cut out let it be universal and not a plant be set in the field. If there is to be a reduction in the crop, which we favor, let the reduction be universal and no grower violate the moral obligation to stand by his neighbor and no county violate its obligation in going back on its neighbor county in whatever plan may be finally agreed upon in dealing with the 1921 crop.

1,000 GROWERS

Vote Unanimously To Continue Market.

At least 10,000 growers of this and adjoining counties met in Lancaster last Monday afternoon in response to the call from the heads of the two tobacco warehouses of this city, to decide the immediate future of the local tobacco market.

The meeting was held in the court house and the auditorium was packed and jammed, many standing in the aisles during the meeting, which was called to order by Judge L. L. Walker, who was unanimously chosen chairman. The situation was gone over by Judge Walker and explained in detail to the growers who listened eagerly and showed intense interest, the tobacco situation of this and adjoining counties. They were told of the action of many counties in asking that the 1921 crop be cut out entirely and he also told them of the closing of many of the loose leaf houses in other parts of the state. Talks were also made by J. E. Robinson and others, each saying that the object of the meeting was to get an expression from the growers of the county as how they felt toward closing the two local houses for another week. The sentiment of the crowd was soon seen to favor an immediate opening of the markets and many expressed themselves in very emphatic terms for immediate opening as they wished to dispose of their present crop, although they were aware that the prices were exceedingly low.

A vote was taken and all unanimously voted to open the market Tuesday morning, and a single vote to the contrary.

As a result of this meeting and at the earnest request of many who were unable to attend the meeting, the directors of the two local houses decided that they would continue the sales which was done last Tuesday morning. This brought to town another large crowd estimated by many to be 1,500 growers all of whom were on the benches and while they thought the prices were entirely too low they were willing and anxious to sell and sit on, as very few rejections were noted throughout the days sale.

JAMES WOODS

Appointed Circuit Clerk.

Judge Charles Hardin appointed this week Mr. James Woods, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Woods, of this city, Circuit Court Clerk to fill out the unexpired term of Joe Burnside, who resigned a few weeks ago to accept a position as watchman at one of the distilleries in Anderson county. The appointment of Mr. Woods is a very popular one and Judge Hardin has made a wise selection and one that we believe will be efficient and painstaking with the records of the court. Mr. Woods while inexperienced in this line of work, under the tutelage of Mr. Tom Wheritt, who will probably coach him for a while, he will take to it rapidly and prove to his friends that he is the right man in the right place.

Let us book your order for best Northern clover and timothy seed. Hudson and Farnau.

MRS. JIM HATCHER

Recovers Stolen Car And Holds Drivers.

To lose one's automobile, report its loss, recover it and capture the two men who are alleged to have stolen it and hold them until the police arrive and take them into custody was the feat of Mrs. J. H. Hatcher, of Lancaster while in Lexington early Saturday morning.

Friday night shortly after 8:00 o'clock Mrs. Hatcher aughted from her machine in front of the Opera House, on North Broadway, and went to see the performance of a musical comedy playing an engagement in Lexington. When the curtain had fallen on the last scene Mrs. Hatcher, upon coming from the theatre, found that her machine was missing from the place where she had parked it.

She telephoned the police informing them of her loss and gave an accurate description of the car. Police machinery was immediately placed in motion to locate the missing automobile. Mrs. Hatcher, however, was not disposed to permit the police to do all the looking and obtained a taxicab and scoured the city. Through all the streets of the city accompanied by the taxicab driver she rode in hope of sighting her stolen machine.

Finally, shortly before 2 o'clock Saturday morning as she was driving out West Main street, Mrs. Hatcher sighted her car near Georgetown street parked close to the curb. She stopped, alighted, and looked in. The two men were inside. According to police, charges were made that they had been drinking.

Both were awake, however, and Mrs. Hatcher kept them cuffed in her automobile while the taxicab driver who had accompanied her left and telephoned the police that the missing car had been recovered. Detective Hanly immediately went to the scene and took the two men into custody and Mrs. Hatcher after delivering her prisoners drove home in her car.

The two men when taken to the police station gave their names as Gib Barnes and William Noe, both of Lexington. Charges of grand larceny were placed against both of the men. Neither was able to furnish bond and they were placed in jail. The two men were not arraigned in police court Saturday morning, however, their cases being continued by Judge John J. Riley, as Mrs. Hatcher was unable to return to Lexington from Lancaster following her all night search and ride home. The cases will be called and disposed of Monday morning, as Mrs. Hatcher has informed authorities that she will come to Lexington then to attend the trial. —Lexington Herald.

Humphrey.

Death has hovered its icy wings over the home of Russ Humphrey and took from them the dear wife and mother. She had been ill for several months when on Sunday, Dec. 26th, the Lord departed her from her suffering and took her home to rest, where her face will be no more pinched by suffering nor wasted by diseases.

Besides her husband she leaves four children and seven step children to mourn her loss and a host of friends and relatives. Her own children being left is Mrs. Mary Davis of Crittenden, Ky., Mrs. John Masters, of Indiana and Mrs. Wesley Bourne and Herman Humphrey of this place. Also Mrs. Branson Lockyer, Mrs. Mike Purcell, Mrs. Frank Hardwick, Alex. Bourne, Bill Walt and Clate all of this county.

Mrs. Humphrey has ever lived a christian life since early childhood. She was laid to rest in the Lancaster cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers to await the coming of all who are left behind.

End Comes To Beautiful Life.

The death of Mrs. Pauline Hocker Foster, wife of Rev. W. O. Foster, of Jellien, Tenn., and granddaughter and niece of Mrs. Mattie Duncan and Mrs. S. C. Denny, of this place, was a shock to her friends and relatives here where she often visited and was so well loved and admired. In telling of her death and beautiful life, the Interior Journal says:

Death is at all times sad, but it is practically so when it comes to a happy young wife and mother as it did when Mrs. Pauline Hocker Foster, wife of Rev. W. O. Foster, of Jellien, Tenn., breathed her last in the Knoxville General Hospital at 6:10 Saturday morning. Mrs. Foster was taken ill at her home, and was removed to Knoxville where she might have the advantage of specialists. She continued to grow worse and it was deemed necessary to operate, but complications were too great to be overcome by even that heroic treatment, and the end came peacefully at the hour mentioned above. Thus ended a beautiful life. As a child, little Pauline Hocker was bright, attractive and lovable. As a school girl she led her class and was loved possibly as no other member of the class was. When she entered college, success crowned her every effort and she was easily the leader of her associates. As a young woman she was loved because of her amiable disposition and her many womanly virtues, and as a wife and mother, she was all that those great words mean. It is not strange that friends, relatives and loved ones are bowed down with grief because she has left them and that the husband, the father, the sisters, the brother, the aged grandmother see no rifts in the gloom that encompasses them. May He who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb give them strength to bear the burden and grace to help them on. Mrs. Pauline Foster was born in Stanford 31 years ago last November, her parents being J. S. Hocker and Sallie Denny.

Early in life she united with the Christian church here and had so lived as to be ever ready to meet her maker. Six years ago she was married to Rev. W. O. Foster, who was her schoolmate at Transylvania. Little Sara Foster, aged five is the fruit of the union, and for this little girl who will never know a mother's love and care, there is unbounded sympathy. She will be well cared for, of course, but denied the tender ministrations of a saintly mother is unfortunately little Sara's portion. It is rather strange that although Mrs. Foster had lived in several other states, she was baptized, married, and her funeral was preached in the Christian church of this city. It is something of a coincidence, too, that Mrs. Morrison Bright, who sang at her marriage, also sang at her funeral, she being one of the quartet. Miss Josephine Carpenter and Messrs. Morrison Bright, and Robert Carter being the others. For some time as Miss Pauline Hocker she taught a Sunday school class here and it is more than probable that her good influence was instrumental in bringing to Christ many of the members. The loss of such a woman to any community is inestimable and Lincoln county, her birth place, and Jellien, her home, are made poorer and Heaven richer by her death. May a merciful God bless and care for the little daughter, give succor and solace to the husband, father, sisters, brother, and grandmother and all others whose hearts bleed because the dear one is no more in flesh. An immense crowd gathered at the Christian church Sunday afternoon for the funeral and Rev. H. J. Hrazleton's splendid sermon must have been comforting to the distressed and balm for the aching hearts. The burial followed in Buffalo cemetery.

Broadus.

Mr. Mote Broadus, aged 71 years, born and raised in Garrard county died at his home on Crab Orchard street Sunday evening after an illness of two weeks of pneumonia. The deceased was prominently connected throughout the county, being a brother of Mrs. Ben Kelley, Mrs. Mary Lane and Messrs. George and William Broadus.

He is survived by his widow, who is a sister of Mrs. Dave Russ of this city. He also leaves four children, all grown and married with the exception of one daughter, Miss Bettie Broadus, who lives in Detroit, Mich.

Funeral services were held at the late home last Tuesday morning, interment following in the Lancaster cemetery.

DO YOU CATCH COLD EASILY?

Your Vitality Is Low—Resistance Weak.

YOU NEED PEPTO-MANGAN

Rich, Red Blood Will Strengthen You And Put You On Your Feet—Able To Resist Colds.

Our system normally healthy should never catch cold. Your body is adjusted to take care of sudden changes in the weather.

It is when you are run down and your vitality is low that your blood cannot adjust itself. Then take cold.

If you keep your blood in good condition, with plenty of red corpuscles, you will be strong and your body will easily adjust itself to sudden changes. You will throw off the cold germs that go flying into the air when someone with a cold sneezes.

Red-blooded men, women and children eat well. They have plenty of energy. They go along with a smile because they feel right.

Try Pepto-Mangan, the successful tonic. It is a wonderful builder. Take it for awhile till you feel right.

Pepto-Mangan is widely and heartily endorsed by physicians. It is effective and easy to take. It is prepared in both liquid and tablet form. The medicinal properties are the same.

Sold at any drug store. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." Ask for it by name and be sure the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package. (Advertisement.)

"Sir," Like Doctor Johnson, Mr. Hazlett addressed everybody as Sir. The youngest and most intimate of his friends was not exempt from this rule, unless Mr. Hazlett happened to be in an unusually happy and cordial humor. Mr. C. H. Heynell's sons, whom he knew as well as his own child, were almost invariably saluted in what would now appear a ludicrously formal manner; but indeed this mode of address had not gone out then so entirely as it has in our day.—R. H. Stoddard

Lancaster School Notes

With the beginning of a new year the school, after a very delightful holiday, has made resolutions to make the remaining school term more successful than the past one. Under the leadership of Prof. Hoyd and the teachers we feel sure that the resolutions we have made will be accomplished.

A Step Toward Visual Education.

A motion picture machine is to be established in the Lancaster school provided the students of the school get 490 subscriptions to the "Country Gentleman," a very fine agricultural magazine.

A demonstration of the machine was given Wednesday morning in the Auditorium and it proved to be a splendid one. This machine will be a fine addition to the school and we think a great help to the classes.

A person gets and retains a more vivid impression through the eye than in any other way. Since this is true the Lancaster school is taking a step forward in education.

Three prizes will be given to the three pupils getting the highest number of subscriptions. The prizes are: first $5.00 cash, second, Waterman fountain pen, third a silver oversharp pencil.

We hope to secure the co-operation of the community and as the "Country Gentleman" will benefit you and the subscription will help the school. PLEASE SUBSCRIBE.

Miss Syler Talks To School Girls.

Miss Syler from the extension department of the University, of Kentucky of which Mr. Willington Patrick is the head, spoke to girls of 6th, 7th, 8th, grades and High School Thursday morning. Her plan is to organize a sewing club to which all girls are eligible, meetings to be held once a week. She showed samples of work to be done and outlined a three year course.

All the girls enjoyed the talk and seemed very much interested and hope the plan will be carried out.

Miss Westover, the community nurse, visited the High School this week. She gave a splendid talk on hygiene telling us how easy it was to spread diseases if you are careless and how easy they could be prevented by taking a little precaution. She will come again next week, this time giving us an eye and whispering test and finding the average weight.

High school regrets very much to lose two of its members, Messrs. J. E. Haselden and A. C. Sanders, who have gone to London, Tenn., to attend the military school there. All wish them joy and success in their new location.

Mr. Henry Cox has been absent from school a few days this past week.

Every citizen of Garrard County should help the school get a moving picture machine by subscribing for the "Country Gentleman."

GRINS AND GROANS.

Social News Item.

Mr. Samuel Elliott expects to spend the next week-end in Stanford.

Clyde—"Didn't I just hear the clock strike ten?" Lucille (yawning)—"You certainly have a good memory."

Miss Henri—"What is density?" Earl Swope—"I can't define it but I can give a good illustration." Miss Henri—The illustration is good, sit down."

Miss Robinson was trying to teach Ben Kavanaugh to read with expression.

"Where—are—you—going?" read Ben laboriously.

"Try that again, said Miss Robinson. "Read as if you were talking. Notice that mark at the end."

Ben studied the interrogation point a moment and then said: "Where are you going, little button hook?"

Swope—"Darling, I just can't express my feelings." Mayne—(With a weary sigh) "Try Parels Post."

Mr. Hoyd—"Translate, Hae in Gallia, est importante."

Eugenia Dunlap—"Hike into Gaul, it is important."

During the Xmas Holidays S. D. Cochran went to Lexington, while walking down the street, he would stop and look up at the signs over the business houses and scratch his head. A stranger noticing his strange behavior, asked: "What's the matter, son?"

S. D.—"I was just thinking. Old man Co. must own nearly all of Lexington."

Stranger—"Who?" S. D.—"Old man Co. You see his name on all the stores. See Smith and Co. and Jones and Co."

AFTER FOUR YEARS

Lancaster Testimony Remains Unshaken.

Time is the best test of truth. Here is a Lancaster story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

W. H. Zanone, Crab Orchard St., Lancaster, says: "My kidneys were irregular in action and the secretions contained sediment. I had pains through my back and sides and when I stooped I could hardly straighten. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at McRobert's Drug Store, and they completely relieved me of all the trouble."

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER Mr. Zanone said: "I gladly confirm all I said in my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have very little trouble with my kidneys now, but when I do I can depend on Doan's for they always relieve me."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Zanone had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Aerial Mail Will Link

Atlanta With Chicago

Establishment of airplane mail service between Atlanta and Chicago by way of Cincinnati is said to be assured following a survey of the route by a number of business men, headed by T. Stewart Blair, manager of the Cincinnati Aircraft Company, a dispatch from Cincinnati recently said.

Fields have been obtained with the exception of a necessary landing place at Lexington, but C. W. Dunn, secretary of the Lexington Chamber of Commerce, has promised that a field will be in readiness by February 15th.

Deliveries will be shortened from five to twenty-four hours over existing schedules, the telegram stated. The rates for mail will be 2 cents an ounce, the same as postal rates. Carriage will be insured. No passengers will be carried.

Hymn Quickly Composed. Perhaps the most quickly written hymn was "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," which was composed by Bishop Heber in little more than fifteen minutes.

Apostle Spoons. "Apostle spoons," called also "gossip spoons," were gift spoons given by the sponsors or "godparents" to a child at its christening. They were so-called because each spoon had a figure of an apostle on the handle. Wealthy people gave the whole twelve spoons; those of less means and generosity gave the four evangelists.

Old Boston Burying Grounds. After the oldest burying grounds in Boston were forsaken for newer ones, they were allowed to go uncared for, and in these years of neglect stones were stolen, moved about, broken and lost. In Copp's Hill burying ground, up the street from the Old North church, stones were fished to fill in holes in chimneys and prop up doorsteps around the neighborhood.

Apostle's Creed. The origin of the Apostle's Creed is not fully determined. It is supposed to have been taken from the confession of Peter (Mark 16:16) and from the baptismal invocation which determined the trinitarian order and arrangement. The earliest mention of the Apostle's Creed is found in the works of St. Irenaeus against heresies. He died in 202 A. D., when about 80 years old.

Expansion of Water.

While nearly all substances are heavier in solid form than in the liquid state, ordinary ice is lighter than water and will float in it. This is due to the fact that as it approaches the freezing point water begins to expand, and when it freezes, it expands so as to increase its volume about one-ninth. This expansive force is sufficiently strong to break glass and earthen pitchers and to split open great rocks in the crevices of which water has frozen.

A Brief Triumph.

The most embarrassing moment of my life happened during my college days, writes a correspondent. We were all sitting at the dinner table of the college boarding house, each trying to outdo the other in intellectual remarks. I had just finished what I considered a particularly bright comment. I lifted a cup of coffee to my lips with an air of triumph, when suddenly the chair I was sitting on collapsed and I sank to the floor, allowing the cup of scolding coffee to pour all over my face and clothes.

Shorthand Long in Use

From references made to skilled writers in ancient literature the inference is drawn that shorthand was known long before the Christian era. The first authentic knowledge of the art dates to the time of many before Christ. The pioneer of modern shorthand was Marcus Tullius Terentius, secretary and librarian to Cicero, who devised a system which was little more than a list of abbreviations. Later it was improved to such an extent that reporters of the time could keep pace with the speakers by writing in relays. The system of the Lullian tell was disseminated between the fifth and ninth centuries, and modern shorthand dates from 1588.

Unlucky Thirteen.

Nearly a dozen important streets in London have no houses numbered 13, evidently in deference to the popular superstition which regards that number as unlucky.

Meanings of Oats in Dream.

To dream of this grain foretells a journey by land; if an engaged young girl dreams of oats it denotes that her wedding tour is not far off. To see the field of oats is a good sign, but to see it cut down is an evil omen. To see oats stored away denotes famine. To sow oats signifies much happiness and gain.

The First Keyboards.

The earliest keyboard of which there is record was that of the hydraulic or water organ, a Greek invention of the Second century. In this the keys, eighteen in number, were all level. The modern chromatic keyboard was in use as early as 1561. The keys were so large they had to be struck with the fist.

The Dog Watch.

"Dog watch" is a corruption of "dodge watch." On board ship there are two sorts of watches—the "long watch" of four hours, and the "dog watch" of two hours, but, strictly speaking a watch means four hours. The dog watches are two short watches, one from 4 to 6 in the morning and the other from 6 to 8 in the evening. "Dodge" is "dodge" the routine or prevent the same men always having a watch at the same time.

The Laramie Mountains.

The Laramie mountains are a range of the Rockies in southeastern Wyoming. It begins on the south bank of the North Platte river, in Natrona county, somewhat southeast of the center of the state, and extends in a southeasterly direction through Albany and Laramie counties, being cut by the Laramie river and its north branch. The range is mostly a broad upland of from seven to eight thousand feet elevation, with no outstanding summits.

Clock Running Since 1624.

A privileged party is being conducted through the state rooms of the White House in Washington last their attention directed to the handsome clock upon the mantle of the blue room, presented by the French to President Andrew Jackson in 1824. "It was running then," proclaimed the chief usher of the mansion boastfully, "and it's been running ever since." Louis XIV's own clock, by the way, at Versailles, has been running regularly since 1624.

Dog High on Roll of Honor.

To mention the dog is at once to call up a long vista of heroic deeds done by this noble species for the sake of mankind. Charlotte Bronte has recorded the finding at Herculaneum of the skeleton of the dog Delta, stretched over that of a boy of 12, with an inscription on the dog's collar, telling how he had three times saved his master's life—from the sea, from robbers, and from wolves. Evidently he perished in a brave attempt to keep the flow of molten lava from his little master.—Our Hund Animals.

Everybody's Goat.

Why not give the farmer a square deal?

If he is to receive greatly reduced prices for his crops, then the labor he employs and the things he buys to produce those crops should be reduced in proportion. So should everything else that he uses.

At the present time there is a marked tendency in this country to "let George do the reducing."

Everybody wants prices reduced in every line but his own, with the result that manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors and dealers throughout the business world are straining themselves in an effort to keep prices up in order that they may revel a little longer in the golden waters of excessive profits.

Every human depends upon the farmer for the food that sustains life, and every hand is leveled at him in an effort to beat him down in his prices.

A great wave of protest against food prices has swept this country from one end to the other, and yet this avoidance of criticism which has engulfed the man who feeds us has been voiced principally by men who have been reaping even greater profits than the farmer.

We are not the champion of the man of the soil, any more than we are of any other man or woman in this community, or this country.

We are just as averse to paying excessive prices for the food that we eat as any other person can possibly be, because we have to dig deeply and cough up mightily to meet the strain.

But we are an advocate of the square deal in business.

That the farmer is not getting.

He is everybody's goat.

We do not believe the high prices in this community are due to excessive profits on the part of our local dealers. Their reputations for fair dealing are too well known for that. But there are too many hands through which the goods pass before they reach this town, and every hand has a grab off its "pound of flesh."

Watson To The Rescue

Thomas E. Watson, the new United States Senator from Georgia, is to introduce a bill in the senate making liberty bonds legal tender. This would put them on a par with the national currency and restore them to at least par value.

If the government ever hopes to sell another bond in this country in time of emergency it will do well to protect the bondholders now.

It requires simply an act of Congress to make every one of these bonds legal tender. That would possess and add advantage over currency in that they would be drawing interest where currency does not.

They would become a possession of value even to the small investor, whereas now they are but a despised and depreciating drug in the market.

It's clearly up to our Uncle Samuel, so shrewd in many things but so blind in this, for some of these days he may need the wherewithal to again patch his pants.

And the dear and confiding public has a disagreeable habit of remembering disagreeable things.

Are We Thankful

The past year has been one of many blessings for each of us. It has been a year replete with prosperity, happiness, and contentment. Its sorrows and its adversities have been few.

Are we duly appreciative of the good things with which the Lord has provided us, or have we merely accepted them as solely the reward of our own merits and forgotten the source which endowed us with the ability to achieve success? Which?

Card Of Thanks.

On behalf of the wife and entire family, we wish to express our thanks and deep appreciation, thru the columns of this paper, to the many friends and acquaintances for their kindness and loving sympathy during the illness and death of our son, Jno D. Wynn. W. C. Wynn.

HARDING SPHINX ON CIVIL SERVICE

Attitude On Postmasterships Causing Uneasiness To The Republicans.

5,000 OFFICES AT STAKE.

Washington.—No little uneasiness is being experienced by many Republican members of Congress over the possibility that President-elect Harding will refuse to revoke President Wilson's executive orders placing first, second and third class postmasterships and all diplomatic offices up to first secretaries of embassies under the civil service. The cause of this uneasiness is that if Mr. Harding does not revoke the orders some 5,000 postmasterships and 200 diplomatic positions will not be disbursed as political patronage.

More than one of Senator Harding's recent visitors to Marion. It was learned recently, have sought to persuade the Senator that party interest demand the revocation of the postmastership order, if not the other and while visitors came away somewhat encouraged by the prospects, they filed to exact any promise from the next President. Mr. Harding has remained Sphinx-like in this as he has in other matters on which he has been divined from all quarters.

All postmasters of whatever class are now in a broad sense under the civil service. Fourth-class postmasters were legislated into the classified service many years ago. But Congress refused to take first, second and third class offices, commonly known as "Presidential offices," out of the patronage class.

That end of the deal was managed by President Wilson. A few years ago he issued an executive order to the effect that a competitive civil service examination must be taken by all applicants for any Presidential office. At the same time he pledged himself to appoint the competitor having the highest rating, regardless of his policy. The only reservation was that the successful applicant should be a man of good moral repute.

If President Harding is to dispense these positions as patronage, it will be necessary for him to revoke President Wilson's orders. If they automatically ceased to be in effect with the expiration of the present administration. Mr. Harding might be saved a great deal of embarrassment simply by failing to reissue them. But, as it is, either will have to revoke them outright or permit them to stand contrary to the advice he has been receiving from those who have been preaching that to the victor belongs the spoils.

Most of these 5,000 positions have been filled under President Wilson's system, and many of them are Republicans, though a majority of them are Democrats. If the present system is continued in effect these incumbents will be entitled to reappointment if they desire it, and this would put up to President Harding the obligation of reappointing many Democrats.

Try a sack of Obelisk flour today.

Judge Sam

Hardin Dead.

Judge Sam C. Hardin died at his home in London, 9:00 A. M., January 4th, was born at Monticello, Kentucky, January 13, 1857. He was married to Miss Mollie Johnston, August 12th, 1886. He came to London October 10th, 1902 and continued his chosen profession, the practice of law. He stood high in the profession as an eminent lawyer, earnest and punctual, as a citizen and townsman he was loved and honored by a host of friends, because of his optimistic spirit and his interest in others. He loved the children, never failing to recognize them, called them by name. The children loved him. He was an elder in the Christian church, teacher of the Men's Bible Class, faithful, loyal, concerned and earnest in the Sunday school and church. A Christian gentleman actuated in what he thought, said and did by the highest motives and most chivalrous spirit modeled on the precepts of his Great Master and Exemplar. The profession has lost an able and worthy member, the community an honored citizen, the church a faithful worker, the home a true and devoted husband and father. He is survived by his wife and four sons. The sons are Sam Johnston, of Chicago, Harold of Jellico, Fleece, of Cincinnati and Robert, of Cleveland, to whom their many friends extend their condolences and sincere sympathy in this sad bereavement.—London Sentinel.

G. O. P. ELECTORS

Members Of College From 48 States Cast Ballots In Washington.

FINAL REPORT ON FEBRUARY 9.

Washington, (Associated Press).—While Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge were chosen for President and Vice President of the United States in the November general elections, they have not yet been officially elected, and will not be until February 9th.

Two important steps remain to be taken to complete their election. The meeting of the electoral college took place Monday, while the final step will be taken Wednesday, February 9, at a joint meeting of the Senate and House of Representatives when the certificates of the vote of each State are opened in the presence of the entire Congress and duly counted.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Vice President Marshall will officially declare Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge to have been elected.

The people, as is well known, did not vote directly for Mr. Harding or Mr. Cox and their running mates in the November election, but for electors of the various parties.

Equal To Senators.

The successful electors of each State comprise the electoral college. They are equal in number to the Senators and Representatives from each State in Congress, as provided by the Constitution. They are required by law to meet in their respective State capitals on the second Monday in January after the Presidential election to cast their votes for President and Vice President in accordance with the wishes of the voters elected them.

The electoral college therefore, will be in session in the forty-eight State capitals Monday. The electors organize by electing one of their number as chairman and choosing a secretary. If any of the electors have died since the November election the remaining electors of the State may select someone to fill the vacancy.

Separate Ballots Used.

After organization the balloting begins first for President and then for Vice President, on separate ballots. Each elector votes for the candidate for whom he was elected to vote. When the ballots are counted three certificates are prepared and duly signed in each State.

One is sent to the judge of the United States District Court of the electors' State, one is sent by mail and another by messenger, usually by one of the electors selected for the purpose, to the President of the United States Senate.

These certificates, in accordance with the Constitution, will be opened by the Vice President, acting as President of the Senate, in the presence of Congress. This final ceremony of the election will take place in the chamber of the House of Representatives Wednesday, February 9th. In a close Presidential race, such as that between Tilden and Hayes, the counting of these returns becomes a serious matter and attracts wide attention.

SOUR STOMACH

INDIGESTION

Thedford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubled Rectal Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficiency of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, blood-purifier, is vouched for by Mr. W. R. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, indigestion, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. E. E.

They had previously made a covenant chosen as the Mayflower compact, which bound them into a civil state with a religious basis. Fast Age.

This is a fast age. We have winter on the Fourth of July, spring vegetables on Christmas; we buy straw hats in February and our felt hats in August; we get our Sunday papers Saturday night and our magazines a month ahead of time. If we telephone a man in San Francisco from New York he hears our voice about four hours before we speak; and if some one in Japan sends us a cablegram tomorrow we get it today.

New Owners

Take Charge.

Recently purchased a grocery store of Mr. J. W. Walker on Fourth street between Main and Walnut, took charge of the business this week. The new firm is now composed of Messrs. Leslie T. Walker and A. D. Bradshaw, who are widely known in Boyle county. It is a pleasure to welcome men like these to our city. Mr. Walker will go back to his farm on the Lexington pike—Danville Advocate.

That Extra Session.

Louisville Evening Post: Governor Morrow is undoubtedly "feeling his way" toward an extra session of the Legislature, and we may expect for the next few weeks at regular intervals the publication of columns why the Governor thinks an extra session may be necessary, always ended with the statement that the Governor has not yet made up his mind, the final announcement coming after its way has been carved.

There is really little need for such elaborate camouflage. Governor Morrow proposes to call an extra session. We have little doubt that such is his intention—because there is every probability that the Legislature to be chosen in fall will have a large Democratic majority in the House, wherein the Republicans now have a majority. The Republican organization in Kentucky wishes to reannex the congressional districts in the State, and, although its majority in the Senate depends on the vote of a man elected as a Democrat, it is easy to see that it will prefer to take the chance with that condition than deferring congressional reapportionment until after the election of the next year.

Of course there will be a number of other reasons given for calling an extra session, but the chief reason in the minds of the Governor's "advisers" is that the matter of the congressional districts.

Oddity.

Mr. Perry Long brought to this office a curiosity in the shape of an egg, presented to him by one of his favorite hens.

It is an exact replica of a well developed kershaw, though not near so large as a kershaw, displayed in our window a few weeks ago.

"Tell It to the Marines."

Tell it to the marines is an expression frequently heard in England, although it is not so common in Canada. The marines were soldiers placed on battleships in the old days when boarding and hand-to-hand fighting were common. As these men did not know anything about seamanship it was a common practice to tell them the most outrageous sea stories, all of which they would believe. Consequently whenever any one told a particularly tall story he was advised to tell it to the marines.

Origin of Old Saying.

The original quotation, "I fear the Greeks bearing gifts" appears in Vergil's Aeneid. The reference is to the siege of Troy. The Greeks besieged the city of Troy without success. Finally they resorted to strategy, offering a huge wooden horse to the Trojans as a gift. The horse was taken into the city and while the Trojans slept, the warriors, with which the horse was filled, came forth and opened the gates for their Greek comrades. The conclusion is that one should fear an enemy when he seems friendly.

"MARY" GEORGE

M. COHAN'S SHOW

Has Unique Plot.

MUSICAL COMEDY COMING FOR THREE-DAY RUN.

At the Lexington Opera House for three days, beginning Thursday, January 14, George M. Cohan will present the greatest musical comedy since the birth of the stage, "Mary," a most very wonderfully told, with a vein of humor that is irresistible, melodies that you will not easily forget, and dancing that will make you gasp with delight.

The story of the play has to do with a young man with an inventive turn of mind, who, in an effort to make secure the financial standing of his mother, who is a leader in the social world, hits upon the happy idea of a portable house, the selling point of which is the sure elimination of the prevailing evil, the high cost of living.

The well laid plans of our energetic young hero comes to grief, but accidentally, he becomes a millionaire over night through the discovery of oil on the land where he had erected quite a number of his portable houses. Of course the inevitable happens, our newly rich young man returns from the West and marries the girl of his dreams, "Mary."

The music and lyrics of "Mary," are by George and Jack Mandel, and the music by Lou Hirsch. Mr. Cohan has assembled a distinctive cast of principals, and a chorus of girls who are an outstanding feature because of their beauty, no greater their excellent singing and capably and bewildering dancing. The costuming is a rare treat to the eye, and the scene embellishments all that could be desired. The ensembles are superb, and the picture shown on the stage is an artistic and the genius of the master of his art, Judge Mitchell.

How a prospective mother prepared for baby's coming

Of all the vital adventures in life, the birth of a baby is the climax of nature's most wonderful evolution.

During this period, nature is supposed to be preparing the internal organism of a woman for a safe and speedy delivery; but it is more the exception than the rule when nature, unaided, performs her part at the crisis in a manner to relieve pain and contribute to comfort.

"I was afraid," writes a prospective mother, "until an experienced mother told me about MOTHER'S FRIEND."

"—but now I cannot recommend MOTHER'S FRIEND too highly for I know it helped me wonderfully, and I can almost say my baby was born without pain. At the present time I am using it again, as I do not want to go thru the ordeal without it."

Three generations of prospective mothers have used MOTHER'S FRIEND. When gently applied, during the period of expectancy, it soothes the fine network of nerves, lubricates the broad, flat, abdominal muscles and prepares the way for an easier, quicker and practical delivery.

For valuable booklet—"MOTHERHOOD and The BABY"—free, fill in coupon below and mail direct to the makers of MOTHER'S FRIEND.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and ointments—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.

Pleasure in Studying Bird Life.
The co-operation of birds and man, studied from the days of Vergil, may well become more intimate and more fruitful of results, as our understanding of bird-life grows deeper. Was it not a British statesman, Viscount Grey of Fallodon, who said in one of his public speeches that the appreciation and study of birds yields a pleasure "rarer and more lasting than any pleasures of excitement, and, in the long run, happier than personal success?"

Delectable Prerogative.
During the reign of Louis XII kissing was very popular at court. Every dance movement ended with every man kissing his partner, and no gallant thought of greeting a lady friend without kissing her on the lips. The king, himself, enjoyed this to the full, and always kissed every pretty girl at any dance or entertainment he attended. At social affairs it was a custom for courtiers to watch Louis, and when he was in high good humor ask such favors as they wished.

VERA'S VILLAIN

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

Vera Copeland was possessed of considerable courage. Had she been other than brave she would never have left her home in the West to come as she had to New York. There was latent talent in Vera's brain—a talent for either illustrating or writing, both gifts being in a state of undevelopedness.

It was during her quest for a villainous type for a story she was writing that Vera stopped and looked into the dingy window of a small cafe that seemed coated with the atmosphere of villainy.

Her alert glance leaped about the room, scanning swiftly the quaint assortment of faces. She dropped into the chair opposite a lone, dejected-looking man.

He was ugly beyond description. There was an almost solemn grandeur about the extreme ill-favor with which the gods had treated him. His brooding eyes lifted slowly, and he gave Vera one long searching glance when she sat down at the small table beside him.

Vera supposed he was pondering darkly on sinister deeds accomplished and in process of achievement.

Had Vera suspected that she was in a most famous rendezvous of thieves and robbers instead of being in a low dive where thieves hatch out their villainous plots she might have watched her steps a bit more closely.

Happily in ignorance of this sacred meeting place, Vera neither watched her step nor guarded her tongue. She was very shortly in conversation with her ugly type, and had begun the acquaintance by asking him if he knew anyone about his style who would be willing to pose for a few sketches.

Vera's heart lost a beat when the man's eyes swung across at her and held her glance for a moment or two before he answered. When he finally replied, the manner in which he brutalized the king's English made Vera shudder with delight. Assuredly she had found a true type for her villain.

In imagination Vera saw her story taking place among the tales of Poe and Maupassant, with this interesting villain to weave her plots around.

The appointment with the Ugly One was made for the following day. It was to come to Vera's studio. It was by no means the first flatter Vera had taken into the realm of criminals, but somehow this particular individual had a peculiar fascination.

Her fertile brain was hatching maneuvers that would bring out the man's true character—wondering how he would act under various conditions. And when he lounged into her studio the next day with a degree of unpunctuality quite in accordance with his nature, Vera felt a great wave of inspiration.

While he sat in the strong light, posed so that she might rapidly sketch in his great leonine head and shoulders, he told blood-curdling tales so vividly that Vera was set to marveling. Her mind was set brilliantly alight now with strangely powerful plots.

The stories she wrote during the few weeks following seemed to leap into the magazine market and find editors ready to gobble them up. She had seven profitable acceptances in the same number of weeks.

Many, many times Vera was thankful to the kind fate that had steered her feet straight into that dreadful little den of crime where she had found her villain.

The villain himself remained very much the same during the weeks he was under Vera's microscopic study. The day came when she decided to test the emotional side of his nature as regarded herself.

She slipped into the most alluring bauble gown that the proceeds from her last story had permitted her to purchase, added a few strictly feminine touches to her attire and awaited in the ambush of a softly lighted studio for the arrival of the villain.

He came—and there was that in his eyes when they rested upon her which quite made Vera fearful for the safety of her study of human nature.

When he took his pose that she might resume her sketching, she made much of the business of getting him in the correct light. He seemed obstinately disinclined to adopt the exact posture she wanted. She went over until she stood close beside him and deliberately laid one soft, cool hand against his cheek in an effort to tilt the head to her liking.

"Now, my little dissector of human nature—what are you going to do now?" He was looking intently at her and her hand dropped. "You have studied me quite long enough. It is my turn now."

Vera was so utterly amazed at the softness of voice, the beauty of her villain's English as he continued talking that she made no move to restrain the hand that was resting on her shoulder.

"That was not a den of thieves and murderers," he told her, "but one of Bohemia's haunts. I am not a cut-throat, but John Verger."

"John Verger—Oh!" It was then that Vera hid her face against the famous writer's shoulder.

"There have been many big things in my life," the villain continued, "but this is far and away the biggest—can it possibly be so great to you?"

Vera looked up into the eyes again. They had grown wonderful and tenderly questioning. And her own eyes spelled her answer.

Your New Year Gift.

"A wonderful gift has the New Year for you."

A calendar, shining, embellished and new.

A sheaf of fair days bound in gladness and cheer.

A chance to begin things all over again.

And sparkling, gay winter completing it all.

May take opportunity, smiling anew, And start being kind, where you failed yesterday—

Unselfish and loving—cast gloom out for cheer.

Rejoice at this wonderful gift at your door And make this year gladder than any before."

The Ballad Of The Box-Tailed Fox

Harrodsburg Democrat

One of the greatest fox-hunts in Kentucky occurred December 20th, thirty years ago. The party assembled at the old Forsythe Mill near the Hurricane hunting grounds. Prominent among the hunters were Col. Jack Chinn, Capt. Steve Walker, Arch Walker, Ed Walker, Wade Walker, W. A. Sharp, John Parks, Capt. J. A. Tomlinson, John Taylor Bond, J. W. VanArsdall, Sr., Tilford Currens and his three sons, Cadge, Clark and Ben, Morgan Chinn, Powell Dunn, Bill Banks, colored and Naps Johnson, colored, a fox hunter of renown.

The party with forty dogs arrived at Abraham Sharp's place about 11 o'clock in the morning and hunted all that day and night. A red fox was flushed and chase was given. But it was not until they struck the trail of the big yellow bob-tailed fox that the real sport began. This fox was famous among the hunters, having been pursued for eight years, and shown himself the master of the cunning tricks and dodges known to foxes. This fox was later killed in a raid on the chicken house of Mr. Preston Burrus by his big white bull dog.

Col. Jack Chinn has held that this was the greatest fox hunt ever staged in Kentucky, and stories are still told of the things that happened during the night. Those living who participated are: Wes VanArsdall, W. A. Sharp, Clark, Cadge, and Ben Currens, Powell Dunn, Morgan Chinn and Arch Walker, the present sheriff of Garrard county.

A Man's Reap. "I don't work you out of your money?" Prominent Old Farmer said. "I didn't; but I worked my way through. Maybe the Lord will forgive me."—Life.

Job's Tears Named. The missionaries in the Hawaiian Islands named one plant. It grows on reedlike stalks, a kind of knotted, rank growth that tears white enamel bonds. Everybody calls these beads Job's tears.

Much Resin in Hawaiian Tree. When you pull a piece of bark off the chunky old monkey-pod tree, reports a traveler recently in Hawaii, you smell so much resin that it seems to you that the hot sun alone would be enough to set the bark flaming like a torch. It makes a tall, pointed flame, like the flame on a big candle. Fire lurks in the tree somewhere, that is certain. These say that at one time the old Hawaiians tapped the tree as Americans do a sugar maple.

Long Thumb—Strong Will. If the top joint of your thumb is long, it shows that you have good will power. Well-developed reasoning faculties are possessed by those people who have thumbs the second joints of which are long. Thumbs that work easily are owned by careless, happy-go-lucky, sporty individuals. A stiff, firm-jointed thumb, however, shows that the person is keen, tactful, self-possessed, and cautious—the sort of man who will get on in the world.

Accidental Colors. Accidental colors are those colors which appear on the face of our eyes, and not those which the object really possesses. Thus, after looking at the bright sun, all other objects appear dark; after dark color is the accidental color of the human sun. When again, we come from a dark room, objects at first appear to be yellow tinge. This is especially the case after wearing blue glasses for a minute or two after one has taken them off. The accidental color of red is bluish green; of orange, blue; of violet, yellow; of blue, white—and the converse.

Peculiar London Names. London Town (England) has many curious names incorporated in its streets and squares which embody strange incidents or are of peculiar origin. The derivations of the name of the city itself would fill a page but one authority gives the name as derived from the Celtic Llundun, City of the Moon, and tradition has it that there was once a temple of Diana where St. Paul's now stands. Similarly Greenwich is supposed to be derived from (Celtic) Gwenneth, meaning City of the Sun. London is also to be derived from Lond, Town, so called from the fact that it was a mythical king of Britain.

STARVING CHINESE

Selling Children.

Boys Placed On Exhibit At Fairs

Like Stock, Bring $2.00 Girls

More Valuable.

(New York World.)

Washington. Victims of the famine in China have been selling their children. A report just received states that in some famine districts fairs have been held at which the exhibits were children, boys selling for $2.00 and girls fairly mature and pretty bring a higher price.

In large areas 25 per cent of the population is declared to be suffering 5 per cent being the highest estimate of the people able to sustain themselves. According to the report "the only practicable way of saving the majority is the opening of food kitchens all over the stricken regions. That will need a huge organization.

The understanding is that the money contributed in this and other foreign countries for relief will be administered independently of the Chinese Government. In the case of the United States, Minister Crane is charged jointly with the representatives of the American Red Cross with the distribution of funds. The Red Cross has already appropriated $500,000 for this purpose.

Many stories are current in China of the authorities threatening to imprison and beat the people for failure to pay taxes, which are collectable in both money and grain, neither of which the people have.

CANDIDATE

FOR CONGRESS

Has Unique Record.

Fess Whitaker Has Been Jailor, Jailor, Soldier And Sailor.

Whitesburg, Ky.,—Fess Whitaker, county judge of Letcher county, will be a candidate for congress from the Tenth district in 1922, he announced at Whitesburg. His campaign, he states, will be made on his past record.

Judge Whitaker's campaign for office last fall attracted wide attention because of the fact that while in charge of the Letcher county jail he was sentenced to serve six months in jail for contempt of court by the then county judge. He immediately announced his candidacy for judge and conducted his campaign from the jail where he had made himself a trusty and assigned himself to work on the roads in the vicinity of the institution. He worked outside in the daytime and spent his nights in jail.

Judge Whitaker in announcing his candidacy, set out his record in the manner given below:

- "The speechless barefooted boy."
- "The industrious son of a noble widow."
- "Soldier."
- "Sailor."
- "Crack shot of the United States army."
- "One of the navy's expert and accurate gunners."
- "Champion pugilist of Whitesburg."
- "Masterful raider."
- "Rough rider."
- "Farmer."
- "Politician."

Resolutions

MT. HEBRON SUNDAY SCHOOL

Men's Convention Bible Class.

Whereas our friend and co-worker of this class, Joe P. Wynn passed away at his home on the evening of January 4th, 1921,

That, in his passing away this class loses one of the most gentle Christian characters, his family a kind and most loving and tender father, and husband, the community one of its most respected leaders in everything that tends to better citizenship.

That, in this sad hour we wish to extend to his family our heart-felt sympathy and we commend them to our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well and one who is too loving to be unkind.

RESOLVED, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this day, and a copy be sent to his family and copy to Central Record.
